As fraud evolves, its detection and management have become more challenging than ever for credit unions. Along with battling new threats, credit unions are now tasked with re-navigating old threats that are gaining new life through fraudsters. Warning, watch, and awareness must be part of every credit union's loss prevention library.

At this virtual meeting, Ken Otsuka, a practitioner with experience in credit union case studies, bond coverages, and insurance claims, will present risk mitigation tips to combat these challenges and reduce fraud losses. He'll present robust strategies to ensure that credit unions become stronger and more resilient in protecting against fraud and will answer member questions.
